

About us

Inclusive Change invites leaders and their teams to participate in authentic dialogue on the hidden elements of human diversity, neuroinclusive learning and collaborative change plans.

The Inclusive Change delivery model is underpinned by four key elements to support universally accepted and methodology-agnostic change management principles. Our curated material is best practice and we include lived experiences to bring our content to life.

We deliver balanced and genuine insights from neurodivergent individuals, guide authentic conversations in safe spaces and design practical change plans to deliver neuroinclusion goals that are sticky, sustainable and authentic.

As experienced consultants, we also offer traditional Change Management strategy and implementation services (with a healthy sprinkling of inclusivity of course!).

About Natalie

Hello, I'm the founder of Inclusive Change, a pioneering consultancy working with leaders and their teams to harness the power that results from embracing diversity in all its forms.

With a special interest in neuroinclusion, I am focused on creating inclusive employee and customer experiences shining a light on neurodivergent strengths.

I have been practicing organisational change management for over 25 years and have held roles with iconic Australian and multinational companies. My practice is shaped by the belief that we all have a right to belong and that talent and capability exist if we know where to look.

I am a proactive advocate for neuroinclusive workplaces, proud to be involved with a network of diverse humans as we partner to create change. I have shared my views in print media and as a guest on podcasts exploring neuroinclusive advocacy.

I welcome the opportunity to participate in panels, conferences and podcasts and look forward to working with you to embed compassionate leadership and create sustainable change.

Respectfully curious?
